

On February 17, 2009, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) was passed by Congress and signed into law by President Obama. ARRA provides increased support to several existing federal programs administered by states, creates new programs such as the State Fiscal Stabilization Fund, and offers opportunities for states to apply for competitive grant programs.

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act's significant investment in North Carolina totaled almost $19.5 billion, including assistance for those needing help the most through increases in unemployment benefits, Medicaid payments, and food stamps. In addition to those expanded services, ARRA gives hundreds of thousands of working North Carolinians a break through tax credits like the Making Work Pay tax credit and the First Time Homebuyer's tax credit.

The Recovery Act is not like earlier attempts to revive the nation's economy. It is not only a one-time infusion of federal funds; instead it is a long-term effort to restore economic expansion in the short-term, as well as prepare the nation's economy for stable, healthy long-term growth. Under the terms of the Recovery Act, support for North Carolina's economy will include both investments made directly by the federal government and investments of federal funds that are made under the oversight of the North Carolina state government.

Education

The Recovery Act placed a special emphasis on maintaining education funding. Governor Beverly Perdue furthered this commitment by pledging additional recovery funds from the Recovery Act to education, and leading North Carolina to additional funds by winning $400 million in the Race to the Top program.

Most of the ARRA education funds are distributed to local schools through existing funding formulas. Special Education Funds and Title I funds go to schools based on eligible student enrollment. State Fiscal Stabilization Funds (SFSF) and the EduJobs grants were designed to hold schools harmless during the recession, and were distributed to public and charter schools. The school systems have spent the majority of the funds on staff and support. Some projects, such as Race to the Top, will be spent for purchasing products and services rather than salaries for staff.

Authorization for low/no interest bonds for school construction/renovation followed the Department of Public Instruction procedures with initial allotments to the school systems. If a school system could not utilize their allotment, it was released to other school systems that could utilize additional allotments.

Durham County schools received $69 million in education funding, including $8 million in Special Education funds, $7.5 million in Title I funds, $32 million in SFSF funds, and $4.5 million in Race to the Top funding.

Pell Grants are an educational Assistance Program that provides grants to eligible students to receive post-secondary or vocational training. Because Pell Grants are not student loans, they allow students to receive financial assistance to further education and training without incurring additional debt. The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act increased the eligibility and the maximum amount of Pell Grants in 2009 and 2010 as a way to encourage educational opportunities, and to provide a way for eligible applicants to gain new job skills.

In Durham County, institutions had 8,141 students funded by Pell Grants; these grants were worth more than $14 million.

Family Assistance

The Federal Department of Agriculture increased funding to their Single-Family home program with the ARRA. These resources assisted families in achieving the American Dream of home ownership through direct financial assistance (grants) or credit (loan guarantees). This program pumped more than $729 million into North Carolina, providing assistance to more than 5,400 families.

In Durham County, 10 families received assistance through this program totaling more than $1.6 million.

The Department of Energy created the Energy Star Appliance rebate program to help stimulate the economy by incentivizing the purchase of new, more energy efficient appliances, and helping consumers by providing long-term savings from their utility bills. The State Energy Office in the North Carolina Department of Commerce managed the program insuring North Carolina residents and retailers received the maximum benefit from this opportunity. North Carolina retailers sold more than 25,500 new energy efficiency appliances through this program, and North Carolina residents will enjoy energy savings for years to come. The program was so successful, that the State Energy Office reprogrammed additional funding to provide discounts to everyone participating in the program, bringing the total program value from $8 up to $10 Million.

Durham County retailers sold 866 appliances through the Energy Star Appliance rebate program.

Small Businesses Assistance

The ARRA provided tax breaks, increased depreciation of business assets, and incentives for hiring for small businesses through the tax law changes found in Part B of the Act. The Recovery Act also established direct aid programs through the federal Small Business Administration (SBA) and US Department of Agriculture (USDA). These programs provided grants, loans and loan guarantees to grant small businesses access to much-needed operational credit during 2009 and 2010.

In Durham County 39 small businesses received SBA loan guarantees worth $16 million. According to the small businesses receiving these loans, the Recovery Act saved or created 513 jobs.

CARS Program

The Car Allowance Rebate Program (CARS), more widely known as the 'Cash-for-Clunkers' program, provided an incentive for drivers of older, energy inefficient vehicles to upgrade to new cars. This program also provided a large economic impact in North Carolina, and North Carolina dealers received more than 18,000 trade-in vehicles through this program. North Carolina Car Dealers sold more than $400,000,000 worth of new cars (recommended MSRP) through the CARS program. North Carolina drivers will save 172,130 miles per gallon through cars purchased through this program.

In Durham County, car dealers sold 657 cars worth $14 million through the ARRA CARS program.

Justice and Public Safety Programs

ARRA increased funding to the federal Byrne Justice Assistance Grants Program (JAG). JAG funds were awarded both as a formula allocation to the State, for $34.5 million, and grants distributed by the Governor's Crime Commission to various local governments and entities. In addition, $21,853,798 went to 216 local governments across the state for various purposes in line with the requirements of the act. Finally, there is a federal competitive portion that was open to state or local government applicants.

In Durham County, the City of Durham received a Drug Interdiction grant worth $750,000. Additionally, the Durham County Government, the City of Durham, and other entities receive more than $2 million in JAG program grants.

Broadband Programs

The Recovery Act funded two dedicated high-speed broadband programs, the USDA's Broadband Initiatives Program (BIP), and the US Department of Commerce's Broadband Technology Opportunities Program (BTOP). The BIP focused on the creation of new service or the expansion of existing services in rural areas, while the BTOP focused on statewide or regional development of important broadband infrastructure.

In Durham County, North Carolina Central University received a $2 million BTOP grant for a distance learning project. In addition, MCNC, located in RTP, received more than $100 million to build out additions to the North Carolina Research and Education Network, which serves schools, hospitals, universities, libraries and other public institutions across the state.

Environment and Natural Resources Programs

ARRA funded several programs to protect the environment, or to develop natural resources more efficiently. These programs ranged from environmental clean-up, such as leaking underground storage tank abatement and Brownfields programs, to EPA clean air grants, wildfire prevention grants, and revolving funds to build, expand, or overhaul existing water and sewer programs. These programs provided nearly $150 million across North Carolina.

In Durham County, the City of Durham received $800,000 in Brownfields clean-up, and the Southern Research Institute in RTP received $1 million to research clean diesel technology.

Green Energy Programs

One of the goals of ARRA was to provide grants to help conserve energy and assist in the development of a green economy. The State Energy Office in the North Carolina Department of Commerce received large grants for energy conservation under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. These grants include the Energy Efficiency Conservation Block Grant (EECBG), funded at just under $20 million, and the State Energy Plan (SEP), funded at $70 million. The State Energy Office then used these grants to make awards to businesses, non-profits, and local governments for various purposes.

In Durham County, the Durham County Government received an EECBG grant of $170,252 for chiller upgrades and replacements, lighting upgrades at the Durham County Administrative Complex. Durham Technical Community College received an EECBG grant of $198,800 to improve lighting and install room occupancy sensors in 12 buildings. The Duke University Nicholas School of the Environment, Durham, had 18 interns and four fellows funded in existing businesses in North Carolina and receive hands-on experience in energy management. Clean Energy Durham received as SEP grant of $85,000 to place two student interns from N.C. Central University to work with the agency's community outreach staff to organize and train volunteers who work with their neighbors to educate them on energy savings, do-it-yourself energy-saving techniques and cost effectiveness of retrofits and group motivation.

Military Programs

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act included approximately $7.4 billion in defense-related appropriations. This includes funding for all service areas and the Army Corps of Engineers. Recovery Act funding addressed some of the unique economic pressures faced by American service members because of their voluntary commitment to serve our nation. The Recovery Act included assistance to service members, upgrades aimed to improve the quality of life for troops and their families, funded three new facilities, and two new VA hospitals in North Carolina, addressing critical needs across the state. In addition to providing much needed facility improvements, this bill also provides more funding for our energy research programs, so that Department of Defense (DOD) can continue to lead the way in the national effort to achieve greater energy independence. North Carolina had 103 military projects funded for a total of $166 million.

In Durham County, the Department of Defense contracted with the Southern Research Institute for $2 million to develop a micro turbine prototype. In addition, the Department of Veterans Affairs contracted for more than $10 million in upgrades to facilities in Durham County.

Safety Net Programs

Safety net programs are the category of ARRA funding that consists of programs designed to help populations made particularly vulnerable by the economic crisis. These generally include increases in existing programs, most notably the increase in both benefit level and duration of unemployment payments. Increases in the amount and duration of unemployment payments makes up the largest chunk of safety net programs funded through the Recovery Act, totaling more than $3.5 billion statewide over more than two years. Safety net programs such as unemployment insurance and SNAP (formerly known as Food Stamps), not only benefit the recipient, but have a proven economic impact on a community.

Durham County residents received $75 million in Unemployment Insurance increases during the 2 ½ year ARRA benefits increase. County residents also received $14.5 million in SNAP benefit increases, and $8.5 million in one-time payments of $250 to social security recipients.

Durham County received more than $228,000 for Head Start Programs.

Durham County Feature Story

Durham leads the way in broadband

One of the important goals of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act was to promote the construction of important infrastructure and technological foundation for a 21st Century economy. High-speed internet, also known as broadband, is one of the great infrastructure challenges and developments of the 21st century. By investing in broadband, ARRA is laying the groundwork for sustainable economic growth, well-paying jobs, and global competitiveness. Like other widespread technological advances, broadband is an enabling technology that will allow for innovations that today cannot be anticipated. These investments have the potential to be transformative. They will create a platform for innovation and entrepreneurship across all sectors of the economy and address many of the state's priorities including healthcare, education, small business, and public safety.

Titles I and II of part A of Act established the two major broadband implementation and expansion programs: the Rural Utilities Service (RUS) Broadband Initiatives Program (BIP) and the National Telecommunications and Information Administration's (NTIA) Broadband Technology Opportunities Program (BTOP). More than $7 billion was available between the two programs for various projects. North Carolina is a national leader in broadband, ranking fourth nationally in the award of Recovery broadband projects.

North Carolina has received notice of more than $280 million in BIP and BTOP projects. 81 North Carolina counties will receive funding or be traversed by a BIP or BTOP program. These programs include projects that support primary and higher education, public safety, economic development; serve vulnerable populations and provide direct broadband services to consumers.

MCNC, a nonprofit, operates NCREN, the North Carolina Research and Educational Network. NCREN connects public and charter schools, the UNC system, local libraries, and various other community anchor institutions, such as public safety and public health centers.

While MCNC is an independent organization, it receives funding from North Carolina state government, and charges individual institutions for the use of the network. With the Recovery Act, MCNC saw a unique opportunity to expand NCREN at no cost to the state, improve service to state entities, and save the state money by stabilizing the ever-increasing cost of high-speed internet to public institutions.

In the first round of the BTOP program, MCNC applied for and was awarded $28.22 million, contributing $11.76 million in in-cash and in-kind match to ultimately provide $40 million to expand the middle-mile fiber infrastructure that supports NCREN.

MCNC's round two program application is known as the Golden LEAF Rural Broadband Initiative (GLRBI). MCNC was awarded $76 million. The grant was supported by a $24 million matching grant from the North Carolina Golden Leaf Foundation for a total of $100 million for the program.

The GLRBI bridges the prosperity gap by delivering broadband infrastructure to rural North Carolina. The project connects both middle mile infrastructure and direct connection to Community Anchor Institutions in the rural northeast, north central, northwest and south central portions of the state. In the 69 counties served by the build, there are 5.9 million residents, and 67 of the 69 counties qualify as underserved under the BTOP rules. The project serves 1,718 K-12 schools, 61 community college main/satellite campuses, 33 baccalaureate degree-granting four-year colleges and universities, 254 public libraries, and 1,887 municipal, county and state public safety facilities. The GLRBI application included over 120 support letters from various counties, elected officials, education leaders, including the Governor and members of the Governor's cabinet.

The two MCNC BTOP awards are seen as model programs for the national broadband program. The BTOP round 1 award is currently deep into its build out phase, and Round 2 broke ground in the summer of 2011. Together, the projects will not only provide North Carolina Universities, schools, and important anchor institutions with more access to broadband, the program will allow MCNC to provide these services at less cost, since it will no longer have to lease fiber-optic cable from private providers. Because of this, the MCNC program will save North Carolina millions each year.

MCNC's headquarters is located in RTP, but the program serves all of North Carolina. MCNC wasn't the only Durham entity who received ARRA-funded broadband awards.

North Carolina Central University, a state-supported liberal arts institution, was chartered in 1909 as a private institution and opened to students on July 5, 1910. The Law School at NCCU was founded in 1940, and has a long history of delivering legal and educational services to economically vulnerable communities.

North Carolina Central University's School of Law made a successful application to BTOP for the Virtual Justice Broadband Project to upgrade broadband services and deploy videoconferencing in five legal assistance facilities.

In addition, NCCU will expand access to its legal education programs. NCCU Law School was awarded almost $2 million to serve low-income residents and undergraduates at Legal AID of North Carolina offices at NCCU. The project will also host virtual classes with four Historically Black Colleges and Universities: Elizabeth City State University, Winston-Salem State University, North Carolina A&T University, and Fayetteville State University. The project will fund legal writing seminars for undergraduates to better prepare them for law school, and to increase outreach to ethnic and economic minorities underrepresented in the legal profession. The program also aims to hold introductory law classes for high school students in the region, including expanding its successful "Street Law" project and its annual Legal Eagle Law Camps in Raleigh and Durham public schools.
